

MyCare Teen Proxy Access

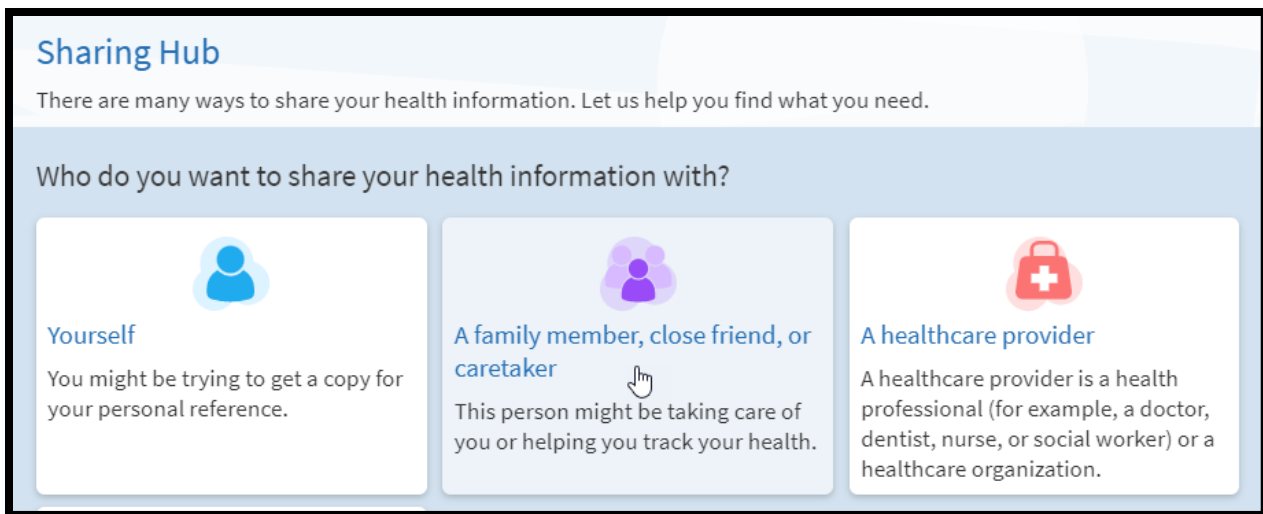

State and federal laws allow teens between the ages of 12 – 17 to consent to certain kinds of medical care, resulting in control of their own medical records. As a result, teens may establish a MyCare account and grant full or limited proxy access to an adult, family member, caretaker or guardian.

Try it out...

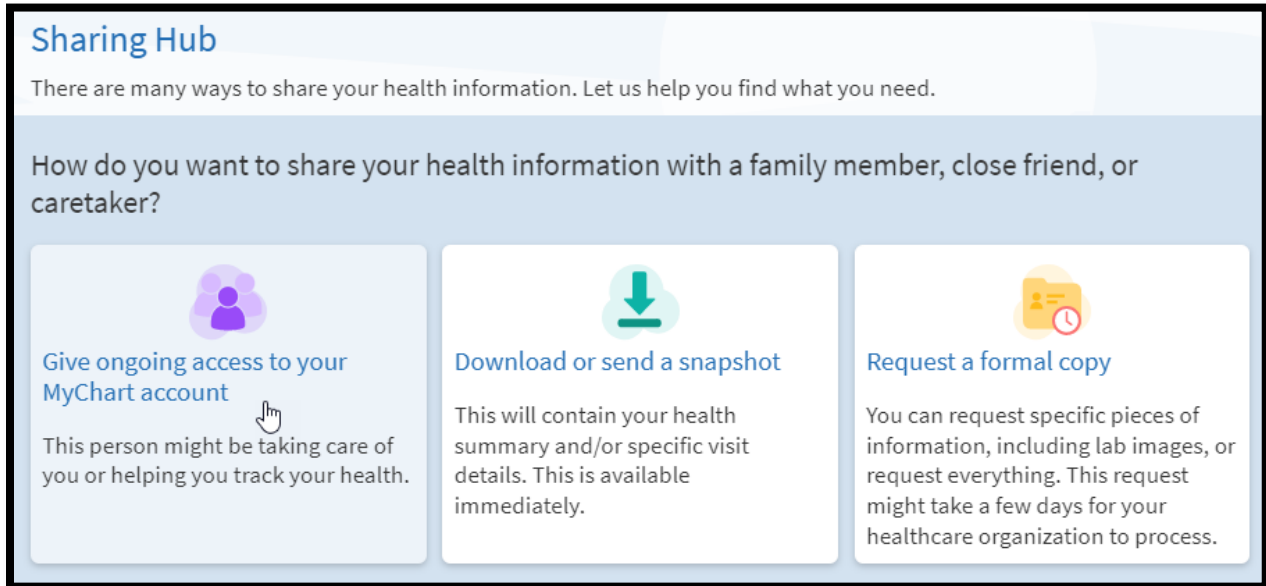

1. Once you log in to your MyCare account, navigate to the Menu and search for "Proxy Access. From there, select "Sharing Hub Proxy Access."

2. On Sharing Hub screen you'll be given the option to choose "Who do you want to share your health information with?" A family member, close friend, or caretaker.

3. If you want to share your health information with a family member, close friend, or caretaker, simply select the option of giving them ongoing access to your MyCare account.
